ORDER

The Employer's petition to revoke subpoena duces tecum B-705612 is denied. The subpoena seeks information relevant to the matter under investigation and describes with sufficient particularity the evidence sought, as required by Section 11(1) of the Act and Section 102.31(b) of the Board's Rules and Regulations.<sup>1</sup> Further, the Employer has failed to establish any other legal basis for revoking the subpoena.<sup>2</sup> See generally NLRB v. North Bay Plumbing, Inc., 102 F.3d 1005 (9th Cir. 1996); NLRB v.

<sup>1</sup> To the extent that the Employer has provided some of the requested material, it is not required to produce that information again.

<sup>2</sup> We reject the Employer's argument that the Board lacked a quorum to issue the instant subpoena. Section 102.31(a) of the Board's Rules and Regulations states that "[t]he Board, or any Member thereof, shall, on the written application of any party, forthwith issue subpoenas requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of any evidence, including books, records, correspondence, or documents, in their possession or under their control. The Executive Secretary shall have the authority to sign and issue any such subpoenas on behalf of the Board or any Member thereof." Here, Chairman Pearce issued the subpoena, in accordance with this Rule.

To the extent that the Employer is arguing that the Board lacks a quorum to rule on the Petition to Revoke, we also reject this argument. We recognize that the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit has found that the President's recess appointments were not valid. See Noel Canning v. NLRB, ___ F.3d ___ (D.C. Cir. 2013). However, as the court itself acknowledged, its decision is in conflict with at least three other courts of appeals. See Evans v. Stephens, 387 F.3d 1220 (11th Cir. 2004), cert. denied, 544 U.S. 942 (2005); United States v. Woodley, 751 F.2d 1008 (9th Cir. 1985); United States v. Allocco, 305 F.2d 704 (2d Cir. 1962). This question remains in litigation, and until such time as it is ultimately resolved, the Board is charged to fulfill its responsibilities under the Act.
